Introducing Float-Rope Doormats with a Worthy Purpose
Help Northern Right Whales, Maine Lobstermen, and the Environment
Made from 100% Recycled Float-Rope --- Hand-woven by Local Maine Crafters

Maine Float-Rope Company (Waldoboro, ME) ---- What's special about the Down East Doormats? They are made from recycled float-rope. Starting in April 2009 lobstermen can no longer use float-rope to tie their traps together. The problem with float-rope is Northern Right Whales can get entangled and may suffer injury and death. Lobstermen need to replace float rope with the more expensive sink rope.

Down East Doormats from The Maine Float-Rope Company will be introduced at the upcoming New England Products Trade Show in Portland March 21-23 in Booth 501P.

Penny Johnston, Green-entrepreneur, mat designer, and founder of The Maine Float-Rope Company will be there to showcase the product line. "Virtually all decent doormats will clean your shoes," says Penny, "but our line of Down East Doormats actually serves a more worthy purpose."

"By making the mats from 100% reclaimed, recycled float rope," Penny says, "We help save Northern Right Whales, by buying float-rope from local lobstermen we help them offset the higher cost for sink rope, and by reusing the plastic float-rope we keep it out of landfills. It's a win-win solution that makes sense. And these mats will clean your shoes like all get out."

Features of the Down East Doormats:

- Made from 100% Recycled float-rope used by Maine lobstermen.
- Trap dirt, mud, snow and sand like no other mat.
- Clean up is a snap—just shake the mat out or hose it down; it's quick drying too.
- Colorful and esthetically pleasing, our mats stand out.
- Virtually indestructible—resistant to mildew and salt water.
- The mats do not retain water or harbor insects like natural fiber mats.
- Talk about Weather-Proof, the mats even float.
- Reversible—just turn it over and start anew.
- Down East Doormats come in a variety of colors and sizes (18" x 30" and 24" x 36")
- Each mat is one of a kind, hand-woven by local crafters in Maine.
- Perfect for the home, cottage, boat, pool and more...
